
FENG SHUI YOUR HOME

Entry Way/ Hallway

- Hang Landscapes and other colorful portraits.
- Place plants on both sides of an entry way to add a welcoming energy.
- Put plants on windowsills, or even hanging from ceilings.
- Add bright light near the doorway.
- A strong colored rug or accent wall will add vitality to the home.

Bedroom

- The best position for beds is diagonally opposite from the door.
- Adding tables and lamps in symmetry to the bed is perfect positioning.
- Views from the bed, out the window, are best for relaxation.
- Soft, neutral colored bedrooms are best for a restful environment. Too many paintings or books can be too mentally stimulating.

Living Room

- Natural materials with lots of color add an energetic feeling to a living room.
- Bookshelves behind seating spaces add a feeling of stability.
- Let couches and chairs face the door to allow a welcoming feel in the room.
- Earthy colors on the walls, lamps, and other fabrics on furnishing add a cosy feel to a living room.
- Seating arrangements in circles add a harmonious vibe from everyone entering the home.
- Plants, flowers, and light reflecting mirrors encourage liveliness.

Kitchen

- The kitchen is the heart of the home, so adding warm accent colors in kitchens add warmth and room for socializing.
- Several different light fixtures add positive energy in a home.
- Freeing a kitchen counter top of clutter and unneeded gadgets will allow chi to flow freely– since the kitchen controls the flow of nourishment and happiness to your entire family.

Bathroom

- If possible, the toilet should be positioned hidden from view when immediately walking into the bathroom.
- A plant or dash of color in a bathroom brightens up the feel in this space.
- Often curvy and other unusual shapes and patterns work well to accent the bathroom space in a home.
- Fixed mirrors are preferred on the wall, normally over the sink.
- Shades of blue, grey, and white work best in bathrooms to give it a relaxing, peaceful feel.

Office

- Placing a chair and a desk in view of the outside world opens up the mind.
- Keeping your desk uncluttered is one of the biggest Feng Shui principles.
